

KK Mechanical Moves up in Listings

Out-of-state work boosts bottom line

KK Mechanical was second on last year's listings of top mechanical contractors but has taken the number one spot this year reporting total earnings of $21.3 million.

The Ogden-based company with around 137 employees does large commercial projects utilizing a wide range of systems.

"I don't think there is a major project out there we haven't bid on or have our name on the list," said Alan Toone, vice president for K.K. Mechanical.

Toone said the company is at work on several large projects including a renovation of Kinsey Hall on the UCLA campus, a hotel in San Diego and housing on the Cal Poly campus. Locally the firm is at work on the mechanical systems at the new Lehi Junior High school and designed the heat pump system for the new North Davis Jr. High School in Clearfield.

Toone said the firm not only bids on a large number of projects but is willing to take on new challenges.

"The Kinsey Hall remodel we are working on now is basically one big classroom," he said. "We installing a radiant panel system in the ceiling that does both the heating and cooling through the panels. We've done them on a small scale before but not one this large." <<
